

Call for Applicants

Join a project to improve perioperative pain management of your patients

EFIC and PAIN OUT¹ invite healthcare providers caring for patients undergoing surgery to apply for a project aimed at improving management of perioperative pain

This is a pilot project which will be carried out in:
Austria, Belgium, France, Italy, Netherlands, Serbia, Spain and Switzerland

Once the pilot is complete, EFIC and PAIN OUT aim to make the program accessible to providers across Europe

- The project will take place over a period of two years during which collaborators will carry out a Quality Improvement project in their hospital using methodology provided by PAIN OUT.
- The project will take place in 10 hospitals in each of the following countries: Austria, Belgium, France, Italy, Netherlands, Serbia, Spain and Switzerland.
- Participating sites will receive some funding to contribute towards costs associated with running the project.
- Applicants can be anesthesiologists or surgeons or nurses, caring for patients undergoing surgery. They will lead the project in their hospital.
- Selection of applicants will be made by the EFIC Task Force on Improving Management of Perioperative Pain Management.

For more information about the project and to find out the deadline for applications in your country, please contact pain-out@med.uni-jena.de or go to <http://pain-out.med.uni-jena.de/node/132>

¹ PAIN OUT is an academic research and quality improvement network offering clinicians tools to evaluate perioperative pain management practices in their center and the opportunity to compare these findings with similar patients in other hospitals, either nationally or internationally (www.pain-out.eu).
